

FSI News & misc.

TELEPHONE HOURS: Monday - Thursday from 9am to 5pm Friday 9am-2pm eastern time. In today's complex market we find that we need one day to concentrate on the things that are necessary to keep the merchandise flowing such as training, ordering and follow-up and taking care of the catalog and web site. We're still working, just not able to take calls outside of these hours. FAX, email & on-line orders anytime.

RWS has moved their US headquarters in New Jersey to a new, larger facility in Fort Smith, Arkansas. This will allow them to be more responsive to your needs and will result in improved service. They have joined another premier German manufacturer, Umarex, makers of the fine Walther, Beretta and Colt CO2 airguns offered under license (see page 18). They request that you call them for a return number before returning any product for warranty service. Do not return to your dealer. The address for all RWS/Diana and Umarex service is: RWS - Umarex USA 6007 S. 29th St. Fort Smith, AR 72901 phone 479-646-4210

FSI airgun books around the world--so far several countries in Europe and South America plus exotic spots like Iceland, Russia, Portugal and New Zealand--the list keeps growing and the people keep it interesting. A number airgunners' "big names" have purchased FSI books, but it was especially exciting when Dr. Robert Beeman added FSI Advanced Airgun Ballistics and the FSI Airgun Ballistic Tables in his research library.

BEEMAN SCOPE MOUNTS The BEE5031 is a 2-pc mount for scopes and RED DOT SIGHTS with 30MM tubes. They also have a great 1-inch mount with a scope stop for the Kodiak and for Webley rifles. Also a 1-pc Adjustable Mount . pg.12

AIRGUN CHRONOGRAPH (page 22) Lighted for indoors. For folks getting serious about airgun ballistics, our F1 Chrony with the Indoor Shooting Fixture is just the ticket. More sensitive--a larger "sweet spot" which makes capturing velocities even easier. It works with airguns and it works indoors where wind and other problems are controllable. It works outdoors, too, and with firearms, arrows and just about anything you throw its way.

The Daisy 747 Target Air Pistol offers lots of target grade accuracy for the buck! Daisy 717 -- accuracy and economy (page 16)

Some products in this catalog contain lead. Do not place any product containing lead in your mouth. Wash your hands after handling lead products and before eating and smoking.

Airguns are not toys and safe gun handling must be practiced at all times. Younger shooters must have adult supervision. Read and understand all operating instructions before using any airgun. Check local laws before ordering.

Support local youth shooting programs such as 4-H, scouting and other youth groups. Take a young person shooting or enroll them in a youth program: get them started along the right path. They are the future of our sport. Include the whole family. Target shooting can easily become an enjoyable family sport.

Homeland Security is affecting us all in many ways. One is that everything coming into the USA is subjected to increased scrutiny both overseas and by US Customs. Nearly every box received shows signs of being examined or opened. This is unavoidable and is one of the prices we must accept in the name of Homeland Security. Even though the box may not be pristine, the merchandise is not affected.

Finding best pellet for your airgun:

Since each airgun is unique, there is no sure way to tell which pellet will perform best in your airgun without testing them in your gun. Those which work well in another airgun of the same model will likely work well in yours, but you will probably be able to do better by testing. There is definitely not a pellet that will work for all situations -- you will need a variety of "bests" to fulfill all of your needs, and they will change with each airgun in your battery.

First: decide what the requirements are: Will you be shooting at long range? short range? ten meter paper target? Will you need knockdown? penetration?

Second: test a variety of pellets on paper at the range you will likely be shooting, selecting the two or three that give the best accuracy.

Third: test other requirements; test knockdown with suitable targets (metallic silhouette or field target). Test penetration with ballistic putty, stacked newspaper, or other consistent medium.

Fourth: record your results: when testing several airguns with a variety of pellets you'll find that pellet "A" may work best in gun "X", but that pellet "B" is exceptional in gun "Y". It is impossible to remember which combinations worked so well after a short while.

Pellet Sampler Packs can help.

RWS and FSI offer pellet sampler packages which include samples of several different types of pellets. These will allow you to test a variety of pellets without buying full tins of each one.

Have Fun.

Finding the "best" pellet is a big part of the fun of precision airgunning

When all else fails, read the instructions. Bad Move

(maybe a very bad move)

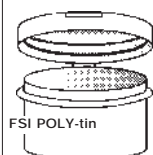

RWS estimated that over 90% of the problems and a high percentage of the failures they encounter could have been avoided by reading the instructions. We occasionally run into similar misunderstandings when customers don't read our terms.

So, please read any operating and maintenance instructions or warnings BEFORE using any new product.

And please, please, please read our sales terms and call or write if you have questions about them before ordering.

See page 2. No excuses. Thanks!

Don't wait until all else fails . . . It might be too late.
